The Brigade, which was very promptly on the spot, succeeded in confining the flare-up to the house in which it originated, so that only a trifling amount of damage was done to the neighbouring houses. The contents of the burnt bouse were insured with Messrs. Schellhass & Co. for $5,000. Origin of the fire unknown, as usual. No casualties reported.

READERS will remember, says a Shanghai native contemporary, a telegram in these columns from Hankow announcing the fallure of a large firm importers are said to amount to a considerable sum, the chief creditors being the agents of Mesars. By the failure of this firm the money market has been very tight in Hankow, which has been the means nearly a dozen export and import houge in sunthe next French mail, left Saigon for this port at | dries and native and foreign cotton cloths. The failure has been the means of causing the collapse of some twenty-five shops of various sizes in Hankow during the past formight or so.

> SATURDAY'S Government Gazette contains, above the signature of the Acting Postmaster General, a lengthy "list of letters as mail per addresses," and it is further stated that "if not | The trustee does not object, and the only creditor claimed within one month they will be returned, opposing is Mr. Reece, claiming for Messis. If possible, to the writers." As nobody in any way | Ewens and Reece, who bases his objection on interested in these letters is ever likely to see the Government Gazette, this notice is a complete farce. Is the Hongkong Government too poor to properly advertise in the local press a matter of such general interest for the information of the public?

THE Klukiang correspondent of the N. C. Daily News, who is evidently in the missionary business, tells the following amusing yarn :- A couple of days ago a large sait junk arrived with a full cargo from Shlerwel, the distributing salt station a few miles above Chinkiang. A monderful story about a dragon was soon on every lip. It was said that at Shierwei an old man with long write beard had come on board without bedding or baggage of any kind. He suddenly disappeared and nobody knew where he had gone. It was a strange event but it was followed by one still more remarkable-a case. Another German vessel, the Pollux, arrived dragon descended straight from heaven and alighted on the boat. I came across a group of Chinamen talking in awe-stricken tones of this event. They said the dragon was inform us that the Northern Pacific Steamship about four feet long with four legs and a Co.'s steamer Moguil left Victoria, B.C., for this head, from the back of which grew a small port, via Japar, on the morning of the 24th inst. | queue about three inches long. His back was covered with thick impenetrable scales. This description purported to be that of an eve-witness. I was told that crowds of people were going off to the boat, burning incense and worshipping on Friday, the 29th proximo, at 8.30 for 9 p.m. | the dreaded creature. I concluded from the description that a diminutive specimen of the crocodile species had been caught, and argued that these animals portended no evil and had no power. I told them that in foreign countries these animals attained large proportions and were exceedingly dangerous to bathers and those people who were unfortunate enough to fall Into the water. I also stated that foreigners be produced. hunted these animals and killed them with rifles that their fiesh was sometimes used for food and their hides manufactured into various useful incense to burn before the awful monster. I was asked why I carried no incense and explained the reason. Arrived on the ship the crowd made way for me and I saw an altar erected, and smoking with numerous sticks of incense. I asked where the dragon was and was shown a kong at one end of the alter next morning's tide and proceeded unbarmed. with a cloth covering over the mouth. The Plaintiff claimed on the authority of McLachian crowds who came presented their efferings with on Shipping, 3rd edition, p. 662 et seq. BLUE FUNNELS AND PIGS.

Company for $483, the value of a consignment of pigs alleged to have been wrongly fettisoned while on a voyage from Hollow to Hongkond in the "Blue Funnel" steamship Nester in 1800. Mr. I. F. Reece was for the plaintiff and Mr. E. C. Etlis for the defendant. Before going into the case Mr. Reece strongly protested against the defendants' solicitor having gine with an interpreter to try and "get at" the plaintiff's witness. Mr. Ellis flatly denied any such imputation. Mr. Reece said there were witnesses ready to swear to it. Mr. Ellis said he had gone to look after at important document, which was essential to the case; that was all.

After a little animated interchange of courtesies, his lordship said :—Say no more about it. I hope Mr. Ellis would not do anything that he has not a perfect right to do, or that is not strictly proper-Mr. Ellis :- I hope not, my lord !

His lordship: -- And the explanation offered by Mr. Ellis appears perfectly reasonable, that he wanted to get a document which was most important in the case; and I am sure both parties are anxious that all such papers should

Mr. Reece then proceeded to open for the plaintiff, and stated that on the 26th August, about twenty miles out from Holkow she again grounded; but instead of transhipping cargo as Tarcoola began to come very fast.
